SALVATION INVOLVES IMPENDING DANGER

By John F. Board, Elizabethtown, KY

When I think about the concept of being saved, I cannot help but realize that such a concept also implies impending danger. For example, currently there is no potential for someone to save me from being hit by a car, because I am seated at my desk in my office (although I guess we have had a few cars run into the building here a time or two—but you know what I mean). There is only the potential for salvation from being hit by a car if I am in danger of such happening.

Such is also true in the spiritual realm. There is no such thing as salvation if there is not impending danger from which someone needs salvation. I wonder though if we actually realize this fact, or if we do realize it—does it change our actions towards those who need salvation? Let us examine this concept a little more in-depth.

A person who has the mental capacity to understand and who has the mental capacity to understand they have sinned against God is in immediate danger. You may ask, “What is that danger?” The Bible refers to such danger in many ways.

Jesus is said to have come to “seek and save the lost.” The concept of “lost” in this passage (Luke 19:10) is not the concept of the loss of being (some think it refers to simply going out of existence). The biblical concept of being lost involves “the loss of wellbeing for eternity.” A person who is lost will spend a timeless existence separated from God.

The Bible also refers to those who choose not to believe and obey God as having their part in the lake which burns with fire and brimstone (Revelation 21:8). Picture this, someone you know is about to fall into a burning lake that contains horrible beasts. Now if you could do something in the physical realm to help them from doing so, would you? I think most all would say, “Of course I would.” Well, what about in the spiritual realm?

The Bible also teaches that the Lord will return again someday. In connection with this idea Jesus stated that the righteous would go away to eternal life (Matthew 25:46) but that He would say to those who were not doing His will, “depart from me, you cursed, into eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels.” (Matthew 25:41). Notice from verse 46 as well that those that he told to depart, will go away into everlasting punishment. In verse 46, though many translations use two different words (eternal and everlasting) in the Greek they are the same word; both punishment and reward are eternal.

Paul writes through inspiration in 2 Thess. 1:7-9 additionally about the Lord’s return. Paul records that the Lord will come in flaming fire taking vengeance on those who know not God and obey not the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ. Is that not the ultimate picture of impending danger. There is none more powerful than Deity like Jesus. I cannot imagine the vengeance that will be taken on that day.

But there is the important fact—you can do something to save a person from impending danger. You can share with them the gospel of Christ. Might they laugh at you or even become angry with you? Quite possibly. But I believe you care enough about others that you will do all you can to save them from impending danger. In the long run it does not matter what I believe—God is relying on you as a Christian to save others from impending danger!

ANDREY KOSTINE WRITES...

Dear Brethren,
 Thank you for your continued support. We are very grateful for your generosity. We love and appreciate you very much, and thank our Lord for your support every month which makes it possible for us to be here.

We are doing fine, and hope that you are as well. It is hard to believe that it is already April, before we know it will be time for us to start packing up and moving to our next life's endeavor.

This week the students are going on a Campaign. We were split up into four groups. Our four areas of Campaign are Columbus, MS., where I am going, Dalton, GA., North Charleston, SC., and Pickwick, TN. I am looking forward to it. It is a nice change from the classroom setting, as well as, a great work.

Thank you again for all that you do. You are in our prayers always.

In Christ,
 Andrey Kostine and Family

DAVID DIXON WRITES...

Dear brethren:

It was a wonderful week at the Memphis School of Preaching. The annual lectureships just concluded and it was a most memorable event. On Monday night there were over a thousand people in attendance, which is a record to anyone's knowledge. There were numerous fine sermons throughout the week and everyone was uplifted and encouraged. The week closed with a wonderful message from brother Robert R. Taylor, Jr. I am already looking forward to next year's series. The theme for next year will be "The Behavior of Belief."

The students are on campaign this week. I am actually leaving today for Pickwick, TN. Please pray for the success of these efforts that souls may be won for Christ. Jason Hilburn is preaching at the campaign in Pickwick.

When we return from campaign the fourth quarter will begin. It is hard to believe that the three quarters have already gone by. I look forward to my continued studies here. Thanks for all that you do for us.

In Christian service,
 David Dixon
