Do Not Sin Against the Children

By Wayne Jackson, MA

“Did I not tell you ‘do not sin against the child’ and you would not listen?” The following query of accusation was framed by Reuben, the oldest of Jacob’s sons, when the then disguised Joseph, then a ruler in Pharaoh’s court, demanded that their younger brother, Benjamin, be brought into the land of Egypt(see Genesis 42:22). The question reflected the fear that the hand of providence finally had caught up with those Israelite men on account of their harsh treatment of Joseph. Sin is always wrong—at any time, any place, and when perpetrated upon anyone. Somehow, we are especially incensed when innocent children are assaulted. There is a great cry against “child abuse.” Yet, people sin against youngsters in many ways in today’s cruel world.

Abortion

More than a million babies are slaughtered each year—before they ever see the light of day. That is more than twice as many lives destroyed annually as were lost in all the wars in the previous two centuries of our country’s existence.

Evolution

From the earliest days of their intellectual perception, the youth of this nation are bombarded with evolutionary ideology which argues the following:

1. Humanity has evolved from inanimate sources, hence there is no need to believe in the concept of a supernatural creation.
2. Since God does not exist, appropriate human conduct is not regulated by a supreme being. Rather, man as his own “God”, operates by a moral code that is both autonomous and situational.

Relativism

So called intellectuals in America have given our nation a legacy of amoral responsibility and now it is coming into our homes. We have taught our youth that there is no ultimate moral responsibility. This is the modus operandi of animals.

Conclusion

It is time that we recognize the value of our children. They are the future of this world. We must care for them, teach them and fortify their precious souls against the evils that would assault them. May each of us resolve to dedicate ourselves to this end.
